WITH THE HEAVY ICE over the week end following a brief snow, many of the roads in Appomattox County were blocked by fallen trees. The above picture was taken Sunday afternoon and the road was still blocked. Main highways had to be cleared first.

MAY LOOK LIKE A "WINTER WONDERLAND", but it was not so wonderful when ice-broken limbs and trees broke power lines and area residents were without electricity during the past week end.

VEPCO CUSTOMERS USED MORE ELECTRICITY IN 1978

The Surry units operated at a capacity factor of 74.2 percent in 1978 and North Anna recorded an 81.3 percent capacity factor during its first seven months of operation, Mr. Proffitt said. The average capacity factor for all U.S. nuclear stations for the first ten months of 1978 was 66.7 percent, he noted.

Mr. Proffitt explained that capacity factor is a measure of the energy generated at a station during a given period of time compared to the energy that would have been generated if the station operated at its maximum dependable capacity throughout that time. He noted that the Surry station performed above the national average in 1977 as well as 1978. The 1977 capacity factor was almost 70 percent, compared to a national average of almost 65 percent.

"Despite the usually emotional attacks and delaying tactics of those with no responsibility for meeting future energy needs, nuclear power is consistently proving itself to be a safe, reliable, economical and needed energy source," Mr. Proffitt said.

NEWS OF SAFETY

Concrete Ideas For Winter

You can keep your concrete steps and sidewalks in safer condition this winter if you take a few simple tips from the experts at the National Ready Mixed Concrete Association (NRMCA).

- If your concrete is new, it is probably advisable not to use any deicers the first winter. If new concrete hasn't cured fully, it can be damaged by early applications of salt. So just clean off loose snow, and sand to assure firm footing.
- The least expensive deicer is still common rock salt. Be cautious of the deicers containing ammonium nitrate and ammonium sulfate fertilizers that are sold as beneficial to lawns. They will melt snow and ice, but because they react chemically with concrete, their extensive use can cause pitting or roughing of the concrete surface.
- If you plan a concrete project next year, ask for air-entrained concrete. Millions of tiny bubbles in the concrete provide increased durability against scaling when salts are used as deicers.
- When building a new driveway, ask for a concrete strength of at least 4,000 pounds per square inch and insist that the concrete be properly cured after placement by sealing the moisture in by using a curing compound, vapor barrier, or by keeping the new concrete continously wet for at least 5 days.
- To increase concrete's resistance to deicing salts, you can apply penetrating sealers, such as a 50-50 mixture of boiled linseed oil and mineral spirits. These should be applied after the concrete is strong (at least 14 days old), before cold weather hits, and at a time when the concrete surface has been dry for a week or so. The linseed oil will darken the color of the concrete and may take a day or two to dry.

Health Care Needs of Elderly To Be Studied

The health care needs of elderly Virginians will be studied intensively by state public health officials during the coming months.

A 10-member Task Force on Health Needs for the Ambulatory Elderly has been named by the State Health Commissioner Dr. James B. Kenley. Its first meeting was held January 10.

Task Force Chairman Dr. Mary Tom Long, who is regional medical director for the State Health Department's Southwest Virginia region, said that the group will make a report to the health commissioner by October 1. It will outline the health department's role in providing health care for the ambulatory elderly during the 1980's. "We won't try to be all things to all people," Dr. Long said. "We see the need for close cooperation with other agencies and the private health care sector."

It is estimated that by 1980 over 1.2 million Virginians will be over 60 years of age. Almost a half million will be over 65. Studies show that 85 percent of those over 65 suffer from chronic health problems requiring medical attention; 50 percent no longer have any natural teeth; and 92 percent have impaired eyesight. About 83,000 people over 65 are hospitalized each year.

The U. S. Congressional Budget Office reports that as many as 11 million people may need long-term care in the U. S. by 1980. The Virginia Office on Aging estimates that five percent of elderly Virginians will be institutionalized by 1980.

"That leaves 95 percent who are ambulatory and in need of a wide range of health services," said Dr. Bedford H. Berrey, assistant state health commissioner and director of the health department's Office of Health Care Programs.

The office was established recently as a result of health department reorganization that brought together all patient care programs. "I see organized health care for the ambulatory elderly as the next logical addition to the types of services we now offer," said Dr. Berrey. Such programs as maternal and child health, crippled children, and home health services are under Dr. Berrey's direction.

The health department is responsible for planning and administering statewide health care programs and is already providing health care to the elderly through its 118 health offices. For example, each district office conducts a home health services program. Sixty-seven percent of the patients in that program are 65 or over. Also, a pre-nursing home screening program provides alternatives to nursing home care.

"But because of the increasing numbers of elderly people, we need to develop more comprehensive services for those who seek our services," said Dr. Berrey.

Canada – A Winter Vacation Wonderland

HIGH ON THE LIST OF FUN THINGS TO DO in Canada is skiing, but shopping and sightseeing are also popular.

Why did the chicken cross the road?

To get to the other side!!!

That's neither here nor there, but what is there, just on the other side of the Canadian-American border, is a winter vacation wonderland—Canada.

In Canada, being a semi-northern country has distinct advantages. Take snow, for example. You need it for skiing, snowshoeing, sleigh rides, tobogganing, and as an integral part of spectacular winter scenery.

Some of the best skiing in North America can be found in the Canadian Rockies, and in the Laurentian Mountains and Eastern Townships of Quebec, both just a short distance from that province's largest metropolitan centre, Montreal.

Those who don't ski may wish to try something a bit different such as a winter farm vacation in Nova Scotia. The pace is somewhat slower than in the summer, but the work goes on, and a winter farm vacation can be an ideal getaway from the hustle and bustle of big city life.

However, if big city life is your cup of tea, Canada has lots of that too.

Cities such as Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver are noted for their sophisticated nighttime entertainment and fine cuisine. Canada's opera and theatre groups, symphony orchestras and ballet companies, such as the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, perform in major Canadian cities throughout the winter months.

Quebec City is unsurpassed for French cuisine. A getaway weekend to this city combines fine eating with a living history lesson.

The best way to see the only walled city north of the Rio Grande is from a horse-drawn calèche.

The nation's capital, Ottawa, boasts what may well be the world's longest manmade skating rink, the Rideau Canal, which stretches 8 km (five miles) from Dow's Lake to the Parliament Buildings, museums which attract thousands of visitors each month, and some of the country's best entertainment at the National Arts Centre.

In Montreal, the second largest French-speaking city in the world, miles of colorful underground passages lined with boutiques, restaurants and shops connect downtown hotels, department stores and business complexes.

Visitors to Toronto can get a bird's eye view of the city from the revolving restaurant atop the CN Tower. The restaurant, located at the 360m (1200-foot) level of the 544.5m (1815-foot) structure, is reached by one of the four glass-walled elevators which run on the outside of the tower.

Winter on Canada's west coast isn't really winter at all.

Vancouver and Victoria get so little snow that it's possible to play golf almost year round. However, excellent ski areas, such as Garibaldi and Whistler are so close to downtown Vancouver that you can ski all day and still go pub-hopping in the evening.

Victoria, which has been described as the most English Canadian city, has green lawns and flowers at Christmas time. Not to be missed is tea at the Empress Hotel where crumpets and English muffins are served every afternoon.

Winter package vacations are available to all parts of Canada, and your travel agent can arrange one to suit your personal tastes.

For general information on Canada as a travel destination, contact the Canadian Government Office of Tourism, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A OH6.

NOTICE

A Public Service of This Newspaper & The Advertising Council

Mike Douglas learned that lifesaving is just one reason to keep Red Cross ready.

"A surprising fact I learned just about every fire lifeguard you've ever seen has had Red Cross safety training. To date, Red Cross has issued over 6.5 million swimming and life-saving certificates.

There's just no telling how many lives saved those hard-earned water safety certificates represent.

Yet important as lifesaving is, it's just one way Red Cross serves our town.

In towns and cities across the nation, Red Cross performs scores of different services. In some places, Red Cross provides home health care for senior citizens. In many places they teach preparation for parenthood. Red Cross helps people relocate after fires. Teaches health, safety, first aid. Helps veterans. In fact, if it needs to be done, chances are Red Cross is doing it right now.

"And Red Cross could care use your help in getting it done. Call your Red Cross chapter today—if you're ready to help. Thanks!"

Keep Red Cross ready.
